Pay Hike Set For Employees At GE Plant

3 Percent Increase Effective Sept. 15 For More Than 700

More than 700 General Electric employees at the Circleville Lamp Plant will receive pay increases of 3 percent, effective September 15, Plant Manager E. G. Grigg announced today.

The increase is provided under General Electric's five-year "Better Living" program, which went into effect in August, 1955.

Another 3 percent boost is scheduled for 1957, and increases of about 3½ percent during 1958 and 1959. A further reduction in employee contributions to the pension plan is scheduled for 1958—resulting in even more take-home pay.

Earlier this Summer, General Electric employees received a 1 percent cost-of-living increase through the company's escalator arrangement.

ACROSS the nation, about 250,000 GE employees are covered under the "Better Living" program—99 percent of them in the insurance plan, 96 percent in the pension plan, and 44 percent in a savings-stock bonus plan.

"Here in Circleville, employees are participating 100 percent in insurance coverage, 96 percent are enrolled for pension coverage, and 45 percent are investing in the savings-stock bonus program," Grigg said.

Suez Confab Gets Down To Meat Of Issue

5-Nation Committee Moves Cautiously In Talks With Nasser

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The Menzies Committee and President Nasser were reported today "down to meat" of the Suez Canal controversy and proceeding cautiously in their talks on a solution.

A source close to the five-nation group headed by Australian Menzies described the atmosphere as friendly despite many disagreements.

The committee—Australia, Ethiopia, Iran, Sweden and the United States—is pushing an 18-nation plan for international operation of the 103-mile Mediterranean-to-Red Sea waterway, which Egypt nationalized July 26. The plan came originally from Secretary of State Dulles and was worked out at the 22-nation London Suez conference Aug. 16-24.

In Paris, the 15-nation council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was to get a report from British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on the London Suez talks.

BEFORE LEAVING London to fly to Paris, Lloyd said, "We are still working for a peaceful settlement."

"Use of force," he declared, "is always distasteful to our people and must be a last resort."

Lloyd said present British and French military preparations "are of a precautionary nature."

"But," he added, "there may come a time when vital interests which are not ours alone may have to be protected."

Lloyd said that in Paris, "I think there will be some useful discussion on the problem of the canal but there is no intention of asking the council to intervene or to pass any resolution."

Circleville Girl Dies Of Injuries

LANCASTER (AP)—Miss Virginia Strittmatter, 19, an employee of the General Electric Co. plant at Circleville, died early today of a crash injury.

The state highway patrol said she was a passenger in a car driven by Earl Strittmatter, 22, early Tuesday when it went off U. S. 22 about 10 miles west of here, grazed one tree and smashed against another.

Miss Strittmatter, originally from Hastings, Pa., had been living in a trailer home in Circleville.

The driver of the car suffered cuts, but his condition at Lancaster-Fairfield Hospital was reported not serious. Miss Strittmatter died in the same hospital.

Critics Open Fire On 1-Way Alleys

Fissell Defends Tentative Plan To Drain Traffic Off Route 22

Replying last night to critics who claim the plan is unwisely drawn and confusing to motorists, City Safety Director Miller Fissell defended the proposal to have several one-way alleys in downtown Circleville.

The subject of the one-way alleys came up in the course of city council's meeting when John Robinson, owner of the City Taxi Co., declared the idea is "making life miserable" for his drivers and other motorists. Fissell defended the plan as having the approval of qualified traffic experts. He also emphasized again that it is tentative in its present form.

The plan, in general, is designed to draw some of the local traffic off heavily-burdened Main St.—Route 22. For a trial period, one-way alleys have been marked inside an area bounded by Scioto, Franklin, Pickaway, Watt and Pinckney streets.

If the plan seems to be "getting results," Fissell explained some time ago, "sensible" enforcement of the one-way rules may begin in about 60 days. The safety director said police do not intend to "work a hardship" on anyone in the enforcement—if the setup turns out to be successful.

ROBINSON led criticism of the plan at last night's meeting, but others present joined in pointing out what they feel are flaws in the system. Robinson said his drivers are often forced to go far out of their way in the course of the taxi hauling because of the one-way alleys. He also maintained that the one-way rules should be placed only on the alleys too narrow to permit cars to pass.

Parking in the alleys, he pointed out, has to be considered in any plan to make them one-way. Fissell reminded Robinson that the one-way plan is the result of a long survey of downtown traffic in reference to Route 22, and that the taxi cabs are supposed to use the alleys "only for the purpose of picking up or discharging passengers."

The safety department chief declared a study of nearby communities will show that Circleville is "far behind the times" in such matters, but he again stressed that no "hardship for anyone" is intended in the enforcement of the one-way rules.

Fissell said he receives many phone calls from people who insist:

"It's time somebody does something about these alleys."

THE reference, he explained, is to the lack of rules that often leads to traffic jams caused by tieups in the alleys. "Sometimes you find two trucks facing each other in any alley—both sitting there blowing their horns at each other," he said.

"We're bending over backwards in trying to avoid hardships for anyone in this matter. But it must be clear to everybody that something has to be done."

Council President Ben Gordon said he had received several complaints about the one-way alley.

Ike Schedules 2 Major Talks On Farm Setup

Both He And Adlai Slated To Speak At Iowa Plowing Contest

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he plans two campaign speeches this month on the farm situation.

Those two addresses, plus another he mentioned at a news conference, will be in addition to a speech at the formal kickoff of his reelection campaign at a "pop rally" at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm one week from today.

Responding to questions Eisenhower said he has tentatively agreed to attend the annual plowing contest at Newton, Iowa. He said he thinks that event is scheduled Sept. 21.

Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, has agreed to speak at Newton on Sept. 22.

Eisenhower said he will visit with friends at Newton and make a speech dealing with the farm situation, which is shaping up as a major issue in this year's presidential campaign.

THE PRESIDENT added that about a week later, along about Sept. 27 or 28, he will make his first nationwide television-radio address. His topic on that occasion also will be agriculture.

Eisenhower said he was not yet sure from which city that broadcast will originate.

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio highway department today opened bids on improvement projects totalling nearly $3½ million.

Apparent low bidders included:

Robert Brate, 24, of nearby Greenfield was arrested Monday. Clifford Royce, also of Greenfield, was arrested after Brate's hearing before Greenfield Mayor Robert Smith. Royce appeared before Justice of the Peace David Boothby of Hillsboro and was bound to the grand jury Tuesday.

Brate is neither a Consolidated employee nor a member of the striking Communications Workers of America, but Royce is.

The union has repeatedly denied responsibility for violence in the 53-day-old strike.

Negotiators have been seeking to conclude a new company-union contract but have stumbled on issues involving working conditions. The negotiators reportedly have not yet discussed wages.

Dunmore Sewers Get City Checkup

Webb Tells Of Flooded Cellars; Crites Raps Letter In Herald

City Service Director Dewey Speakman assured city council last night that his department is pushing a sewer checkup in the vicinity of Dunmore Road, trying to learn why cellars in that neighborhood are being flooded.

With Ed Webb as their spokesman, residents of Dunmore Road warned several days ago that they will demand immediate action to correct whatever the fault turns out to be. Carrying the complaint into council last night, Webb said sewer failures in his neighborhood have caused a "stinking situation."

Webb described how a sanitary sewer backed up in his basement about three times during the past four or five months, presumably because storm water in some way is finding its way into the sanitary sewer. He told how the flooding ruined furnishings and added: "You don't have to see it. All you have to do is walk in our front door and smell it."

SPEAKMAN was inclined to agree that storm water is finding its way into the sanitary line, but how and where this is happening was a point on which theories varied. Webb told members of council:

"I don't know how it's happening, but I feel it's the city's responsibility to find out. And it's the city's negligence to allow it to happen."

Webb described how several of his neighbors have the same problem. Water in the basement of the Tom Thorne residence, Webb said, was "probably the deepest of all."

Speakman reminded council that the problem of flooded basements is to be found in many sections of the city, and he added it is much worse in the Northend than it is in the Dunmore Road area. The service department is in the process now of correcting several illegal sewer hookups found in a Northend neighborhood.

A city ordinance provides stiff penalties for anyone who knowingly makes or uses an illegal sewer tap.

"You'll find the trouble all over town," Speakman told the lawmakers, "especially after heavy rain. It's just something we have to try to fix whenever we can locate the trouble."

"Everybody knows our storm sewers are inadequate at many points."

AS TO the Dunmore Road trouble, Speakman voiced the theory that storm water is finding its way into the sanitary sewer through ill-fitting manhole covers. This could happen, he said, and the "leakage" could be considerable, when storm water covers streets in the vicinity.

Some of those present, however, doubted this could be the cause of it all. They speculated that downspouts in the neighborhood are incorrectly draining into the sanitary sewer in some manner.

Speakman said his department intends to find out if this is true. During the discussion, Councilman George Crites criticized a "Letter to the Editor" published in Tuesday's issue of The Herald. The public letter was signed by Fred Bowsher, who said he was working in the basement of one of the Dunmore Road homes when the latest flooding occurred.

Bowsher aimed criticism at the city, but Crites said he wanted to emphasize that council is "merely the legislative body." He added: "We appropriate the money and we make the laws, but it's not up to us to see that the job is carried out. That's up to the executive branch of the city government—the officials concerned, the police."

Adlai Hoping Draft To End

GOP Lashed For Linking Dems To War Economy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson subscribed today "with all my heart" to what he called the national will that the military draft be ended at the "earliest possible moment consistent with the national safety."

The Democratic presidential nominee included that qualified pledge to halt the draft in a major address for the 38th annual convention of the American Legion.

Stevenson's address sprayed the GOP with criticism, accusing it of a "shocking abuse of the elementary political decencies" in handling the peace issue.

He said the claim that the Democrats were responsible for the Korean War and the Republicans stopped it was "as miserable a fraud as has ever been used by a political party to confuse and embitter a people who must govern themselves on facts not fiction."

Stevenson issued a plea for "honesty in our national debate about war and peace." He said this debate will be poisoned if one party claims a deeper love for peace than the other.

Santa Fe Chief Plows Head-On Into Idle Unit

Open Switch Turns Flyer On Sidetrack; No Passengers Dead

SPRINGER, N. M. (AP)—Twenty railway workers perished early today when the speeding Santa Fe Chief smashed head-on into a sidetracked mail train in northern New Mexico.

Railway officials said the death toll may be higher when wrecking crews pry into the twisted and torn cars of the Chief. At least seven were injured.

Santa Fe spokesmen said as far as can be determined there were no passengers killed in the early-morning tragedy.

The Chief shot into the bypass where Santa Fe mail train No. 8 was waiting its turn for the main line to continue north.

The dead included the engineer of the mail train, the engineer, fireman and conductor of the Chief, and 16 waiters and lounge car attendants who were asleep in a dormitory car on the Chief.

The identified dead are L. J. Rush of Raton, N. M., engineer of the mail train; E. O. Foster of Raton, engineer on the Chief; W. H. Adams of Raton, fireman on the Chief and W. L. Schriever of Las Vegas, conductor on the Chief.

HOSPITALIZED at Springer in critical condition is Jim Walter of Rockford, Ill., cook on the Chief. In serious condition are Charles Kincaid of Albuquerque, brakeman and William P. Wright of Chicago, waiter.

In less serious condition in Springer are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rosen of New York, Miss Jessie Schweizer of Maplewood, Mo., and Mrs. Hattie Meckfeasee, also of Maplewood.

GOP Lashed For Linking Dems To War Economy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson subscribed today "with all my heart" to what he called the national will that the military draft be ended at the "earliest possible moment consistent with the national safety."

The Democratic presidential nominee included that qualified pledge to halt the draft in a major address for the 38th annual convention of the American Legion.

Stevenson's address sprayed the GOP with criticism, accusing it of a "shocking abuse of the elementary political decency" in handling the peace issue.

He said the claim that the Democrats were responsible for the Korean War and the Republicans stopped it was "as miserable a fraud as has ever been used by a political party to confuse and embitter a people who must govern themselves on facts not fiction."

Stevenson issued a plea for "honesty in our national debate about war and peace." He said this debate will be poisoned if one party claims a deeper love for peace than the other.

Who Is To Blame For Living Costs?

Who is responsible for the climbing cost of living—the Democrats or the Republicans? James Marlow, Associated Press news analyst, sits on the fence and balances facts against the "one-sided stories" being put out by both political camps during the current election campaign.

Santa Fe Chief Plows Head-On Into Idle Unit

Open Switch Turns Flyer On Sidetrack; No Passengers Dead

SPRINGER, N. M. (AP)—Twenty railway workers perished early today when the speeding Santa Fe Chief smashed head-on into a sidetracked mail train in northern New Mexico.

Railway officials said the death toll may be higher when wrecking crews pry into the twisted and torn cars of the Chief. At least seven were injured.

Santa Fe spokesmen said as far as can be determined there were no passengers killed in the early-morning tragedy.

The Chief shot into the bypass where Santa Fe mail train No. 8 was waiting its turn for the main line to continue north.

The dead included the engineer of the mail train, the engineer, fireman and conductor of the Chief, and 16 waiters and lounge car attendants who were asleep in a dormitory car on the Chief.

The identified dead are L. J. Rush of Raton, N. M., engineer of the mail train; E. O. Foster of Raton, engineer on the Chief; W. H. Adams of Raton, fireman on the Chief and W. L. Schriever of Las Vegas, conductor on the Chief.

HOSPITALIZED at Springer in critical condition is Jim Walter of Rockford, Ill., cook on the Chief. In serious condition are Charles Kincaid of Albuquerque, brakeman and William P. Wright of Chicago, waiter.

In less serious condition in Springer are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rosen of New York, Miss Jessie Schweizer of Maplewood, Mo., and Mrs. Hattie Meckfease, also of Maplewood.

Associated Press writer John B. Curtis said "The task even of determining the number of dead is horribly complicated because of condition of the trains. The cars are mangled, twisted and standing on end. Women's shoes, bedclothing and suitcases are everywhere."

Boy's Gun Play Fatal To Classmate

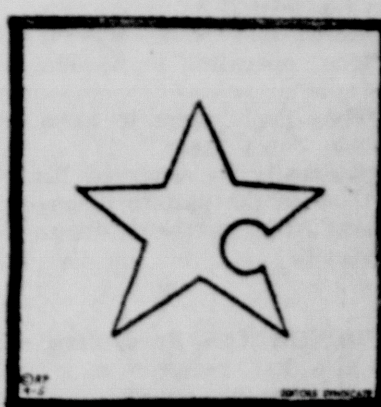

STEBENVILLE (AP)—George Burford Jr., of nearby Tiltonsville was showing two other eight-year-old boys his dad's gun collection Tuesday and decided to demonstrate a .22 caliber pistol.

Sheriff Clarence Eberts said Burford put a shell in the gun and pulled the trigger. The bullet hit James A. Masters, a classmate, in the heart, killing him.

The coroner has not yet ruled, but Sheriff Eberts said he considered the shooting accidental.

"EX-SHERIFF'S BADGE"

Hollywood movies have given today's young people the wrong impression of what the life of a Sheriff was really like back in the days of the roaring West when Men were Men and the Women didn't look much different. A Law Officer didn't spend all his time rounding up Poses and shooting it out with Bad Men. There were a lot of crummy duties a Sheriff had to perform that you never see in pictures. Duties like mopping the jail, removing used nooses from Rustlers, sobering up drunks and locking up Wise Guys who said, "They went thataway!" when actually they had gone t'otherway. Think this over next time you feel like trading jobs with Wyatt Earp.

Dixie Racial Discords Only Sporadic As Students Trudge Back To School

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Racial disorders flared across the South as millions of children trudged to classrooms to start the third school year since the U. S. Supreme Court ruled segregation unconstitutional.

But the outbreaks were sporadic and confined to small communities for the most part.

Despite the disturbances, more Negroes than ever before were attending integrated classes.

Exact figures were not available immediately, but the Southern Education Reporting Service at Knoxville, Tenn., estimated recently that 300,000 of the 2,500,000 Negroes in 17 states and the District of Columbia now lived in integrated school districts.

Most of the areas where Negroes and white persons went to school together were in the border states. With a few exceptions, the "Deep South" generally was holding firm against the high tribunal's integration decision of May 17, 1954.

Law and order, supported by Tennessee National Guardsmen with tanks, appeared to be winning out at Clinton, Tenn. Nine of the 12 eligible Negroes attended classes Tuesday and then walked to nearby homes in the east Tennessee town. They were taken home in cars previously. Only 257 white children out of the total enrollment of 806 attended classes.

At Oliver Springs, 12 miles west of Clinton, a crowd of about 400 broke up soon after arrival of a National Guard reconnaissance patrol from Clinton. Fred Giles, night police chief, said plans to march on Clinton to "get those Negroes" were abandoned.

Two Negroes were arrested on charges of felonious assault in the wounding of a white man and 15 white persons were arrested on breach of the peace charges during a riot at Oliver Springs Monday night. National Guardsmen from Clinton finally broke it up.

At Knoxville, Tenn., two Negro effigies were hanged from a flag tower at Fulton High School Tuesday night.

The 10-foot figures, apparently an outgrowth of racial tension at nearby Clinton growing out of school integration there, had signs around their necks reading:

"This is Fulton's first nigger, and the last. Amen."

"This is Fulton's first nigger. Who is next?"

No Negroes had attempted to register when Fulton classes opened Tuesday, although five Negroes were turned away at East High, and one Negro child came was turned away from two elementary schools.

At Mansfield, Tex., an attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said Tuesday night that efforts to enroll 12 Negro pupils in the high school have been abandoned for the present.

New Garbage Plan Now Under Study

Council Hears First Reading; No Successor Yet For Cook

City council last night heard first reading of legislation designed to give Circleville its first modern system of garbage and rubbish disposal—a sanitary fill setup, supported by a voluntary collection plan under contract.

The important legislation, which would affect most homes in the corporation, was described as "urgent" by Councilman George Crites. He said smoke and foul odors from the city's open dumping grounds have forced residents, within the past several weeks, "to close their windows to keep from getting sick."

The "garbage ordinance" was one of the few top priority subjects discussed as council adjourned early in its first September session. The lawmakers also discussed, at some length, the latest complaints on inadequate sewers and the move to establish one-way alleys in the downtown area.

(See separate stories) Councilman Dudley Carpenter was out of the city on business, and the council post resigned by Lee Cook also remained vacant. With only five members present, council delayed final action on a few measures left pending from the previous meeting.

EVEN PRIOR to the meeting it became apparent that council plans to take its time in picking a successor for Cook, who served as Democratic spokesman for the second ward. Council had 30 days in which to name a successor before that authority passes to Mayor Bob Hedges, and the 30-day period will include council's next meeting.

While at first there appeared to be very few in the field to step into the job vacated by Cook, members of council disclosed that several have come under consideration during the past few days. The new councilman must be a resident of the second ward.

Shortly after the meeting opened, Councilman Charles Kirkpatrick called attention to a laudatory letter received by Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise. The communication was received from Wilfred L. Wilson, safety advisor with the Division of Safety and Hygiene, Industrial Commission of Ohio. Wilson wrote to Wise:

"We are very appreciative of your interest in safety and apparent endeavor to maintain safe working conditions, as evidenced by machinery safeguarding and a clean and orderly fire department."

"I fully appreciate the courtesy and cooperation extended during my visit. If we can be of further service, please let us know."

Kirkpatrick, who read the letter to council, added his own commendations.

Council then went into a discussion on sewer trouble in the South end, and later debated the merits of the one-way alley traffic plan.

RESUMING routine matters, the lawmakers then confirmed the reappointment of Dr. Ned Griner as a member of the board of public utilities for a six-year term. Dr. Griner was reappointed by Mayor Bob Hedges.

First reading of the "garbage ordinance," a measure replacing a discarded ordinance, came shortly before council adjourned into a discussion group to hear the progress of plans for a major Northend sewer project. Preliminary estimates and advice on the job have been prepared by the firm of Burgess and Niple, a Columbus firm of consulting engineers.

Procedure for financing the improvements is the first step now under study. The plans would overhaul and modernize virtually all of the Northend sewer system, frequently a target for complaints.

"IT'S certainly not fair to blame council for something that isn't our fault. If this were a city manager form of government and things like this happened, we could fire the city manager and get a new one—but it isn't a city manager government."

At this point Councilman Boyd Horn intervened to say:

"I believe we could get action if we'd stop appropriating money!"

His comment caused such an audible stir among all those present that other remarks Horn made could not be heard. Council President Ben Gordon reminded Horn that council has to follow the routine of appropriating money to keep the city in operation.

Critics recalled how "we tried to put the city manager plan in a few years ago, but it failed." And Horn replied:

"It would happen regardless."

the service department, the health department and so on.

"It's certainly not fair to blame council for something that isn't our fault. If this were a city manager form of government and things like this happened, we could fire the city manager and get a new one—but it isn't a city manager government."

At this point Councilman Boyd Horn intervened to say:

"I believe we could get action if we'd stop appropriating money!"

His comment caused such an audible stir among all those present that other remarks Horn made could not be heard. Council President Ben Gordon reminded Horn that council has to follow the routine of appropriating money to keep the city in operation.

Critics recalled how "we tried to put the city manager plan in a few years ago, but it failed." And Horn replied:

"It would happen regardless." Speakman indicated he would report at later meetings on the Dunmore Road sewer difficulties.

Columbus Motorist Fined $260, Jailed 30 Days After Hot Chase

A Columbus motorist, James R. Parker, 28, of Columbus, apprehended in a wild 110 miles-per-hour chase up Route 23 early Sunday morning, was fined $260, sentenced to 30 days in jail and had his driver's license suspended for three years. His case was heard in Circleville Municipal Court Tuesday.

Parker was fined and penalized for the following offenses: $100 and cost, 15 days in jail and his driver's license suspended two years for driving while under the influence of intoxicants; $100 and cost, 15 days in jail—the sentence to run consecutively with the "drunk" driving jail term—for driving while his license was under suspension; $50 and costs and a one year driving suspension—to run consecutively with the two year suspension—for reckless operation.

A $10 and cost fine for resisting arrest was suspended. Parker was arrested by Officer Don Adams, who pursued him in a city cruiser almost to the Pickaway-Franklin County line.

Four other "drunk" driving cases were also heard in the local court. Howard V. Sampson, 64, of Ashville was bound over to the Grand Jury under $200 bond on the driving while intoxicated accusation. He was arrested by State Patrolman Gene Miller.

Lions Hear Chief Justice Weygandt

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court told members of the Circleville Lions Club last night that a judge, to perform his duties well, must have an "everlasting faith in human nature."

Justice Weygandt was the main speaker at the regular meeting of the local Lions Club, speaking on "Mysteries of the Judiciary." He stressed the vital importance of the executive and legislative branches of government, but reminded his listeners that justice for all persons is a paramount essential in the American way of life. To see that such justice is served, he explained, all judges must have firm confidence in human nature.

plan, and he added later in criticism.

"Whenever the people in the city of Circleville have to give up their privileges just for the sake of traffic on Route 22, then it's about time we just locked up the town."

Gordon told of one-way traffic patterns operating in Florida and said:

"They don't seem to have any trouble down there."

Apparently he centered his objections on the pattern of one-way alleys as it has been drawn for Circleville, and not on the idea itself.

COUNCILMAN Boyd Horn said he also has received complaints against the one-way alley idea. He said he thinks the plan should be revised, claiming the present set-up is confusing to motorists.

Bud Linn, a spectator, likewise questioned Fissell on the plan. He indicated he feels it could have been drawn in a more workable pattern. However, Fissell assured him it was worked out with the help of traffic authorities who are familiar with the city's traffic flow.

Councilman Harold Clifton was one of the very few who spoke up in defense of the plan. He said:

"I think it's going to be an advantage. It looks pretty good. At least, when you go up town these days you don't see traffic all balled up like you used to. At any rate, it's only on a 60-day trial basis."

Three Cruisers In Chase That Did 100-Plus

Circleville Policeman Started Pursuit In Downtown Section

To The Reader: When Paul Smallwood, Herald reporter, wrote the following account of a roaring highway chase to apprehend a traffic violator, he neglected to mention how he had a close-up seat as the cars screamed and swerved in the thrilling pursuit. Smallwood happened to be riding with Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Bob Hoover when the deputy, along with Patrolman Gene Miller in another cruiser, joined in the chase to aid a Circleville police officer. "Sometimes," the reporter admitted, "we were doing better than 100 — and let's just say I hung on tight."

By PAUL SMALLWOOD
Herald Staff Writer

Teamplay is a beautiful lesson to watch on the athletic field, and it's just as pretty when law enforcement agencies line up to help one another when the chips are down.

I make this statement in reference to a wild chase up Route 23 early Sunday morning in which Circleville police, the county sheriff's department and the state highway patrol all collaborated to bring a high-flying motorist down to earth.

The driver of the speeding car was identified as James R. Parker, 28, of Columbus. He was accused of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, driving with his operator's license suspended, resisting arrest and speeding at 105.

Although Circleville policeman Don Adams bore the brunt of the chase, Deputy Bob Hoover and State Patrolman Gene Miller were available to give assistance as needed.

Officer Adams began pursuing Parker near the city police station and finally caught him, exactly eight minutes later, one mile south of the Pickaway-Franklin County line. The eight-minute trip covered approximately 15 miles.

Deputy Hoover and Patrolman Miller became involved in the hot pursuit two miles north of South Bloomfield. Both their cruisers were patrolling the northern section of the county when they got the radio alert.

However, both vehicles happened to be headed south. And before they could get turned around, the speeder, with Officer Adams right behind him, passed like a flash. They were really moving!

In what seems less than a second, Hoover and Miller had their cruisers headed north, determined to give Officer Adams all possible assistance.

With all three law cars after him, the speed-happy driver apparently decided it was time he slowed down to a mere 85 or 90. At this point, Officer Adams got his cruiser around Parker's car and finally brought him to a halt.

In relating some of the details of the chase between Circleville and South Bloomfield, Officer Adams said that the speeder was moving along at a steady 110 mile per hour clip.

HE ALSO noted that Parker crossed several yellow warning lines in order to get around traffic in front of him. At the Bell Siding underpass, the Columbus speedster forced two cars off the road when he went through the wrong side of the tunnel.

Officer Adams told how he had a few close calls himself. The first one was just north of the city when a car, approaching from the opposite direction, forced the police

Woman, 70, Held In 105th Arrest

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A 70-year-old woman, Mrs. Maggie Reilly, was arrested in a large department store on petty larceny charges.

She has been arrested in all the principal cities of the United States and Canada and has used 44 aliases, police added.

The septuagenarian has spent a third of her life in jail.

Toledo Move On Road Fund Irks Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The mayor of Cleveland expressed concern Tuesday over a move by the city manager of Toledo to sign a contract for 90 per cent federal funds and 10 per cent city funds to build the last leg of the North Toledo expressway.

Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze said he considered any such move a breakthrough by the state on his stand that Ohio should pay 5 per cent and the cities 5 per cent.

Until now, Toledo, Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati had been the strongholds of the 90 - 5 - 5 theory.

Under a recent act of Congress, the federal government would pay

90 per cent of the cost of urban expressways on the interstate highway system.

Celebrezze contends the state should share half of the remainder of the cost. But Gov. Frank J. Lausche has refused to commit any state money to such projects.

Toledo City Manager John J. McCarthy now says he will ask his city council today to accept a 90-10 contract for the expressway segment. The contract, he said, will have an escape clause to ensure Toledo a rebate if Ohio yields later and shares in the expense of such projects.

He said he feels his city must go ahead on the 90-10 formula to avoid delay on the expressway.

Commented Cleveland's Safety Service Director Louis L. Drasler: "What the heck! We have jobs we don't want held up either. But we're not signing any 90-10 contracts."

Navy Defends Training On Old Type Typewriter

CHICAGO (AP)—The Navy today sprang to the defense of the non-electric typewriter.

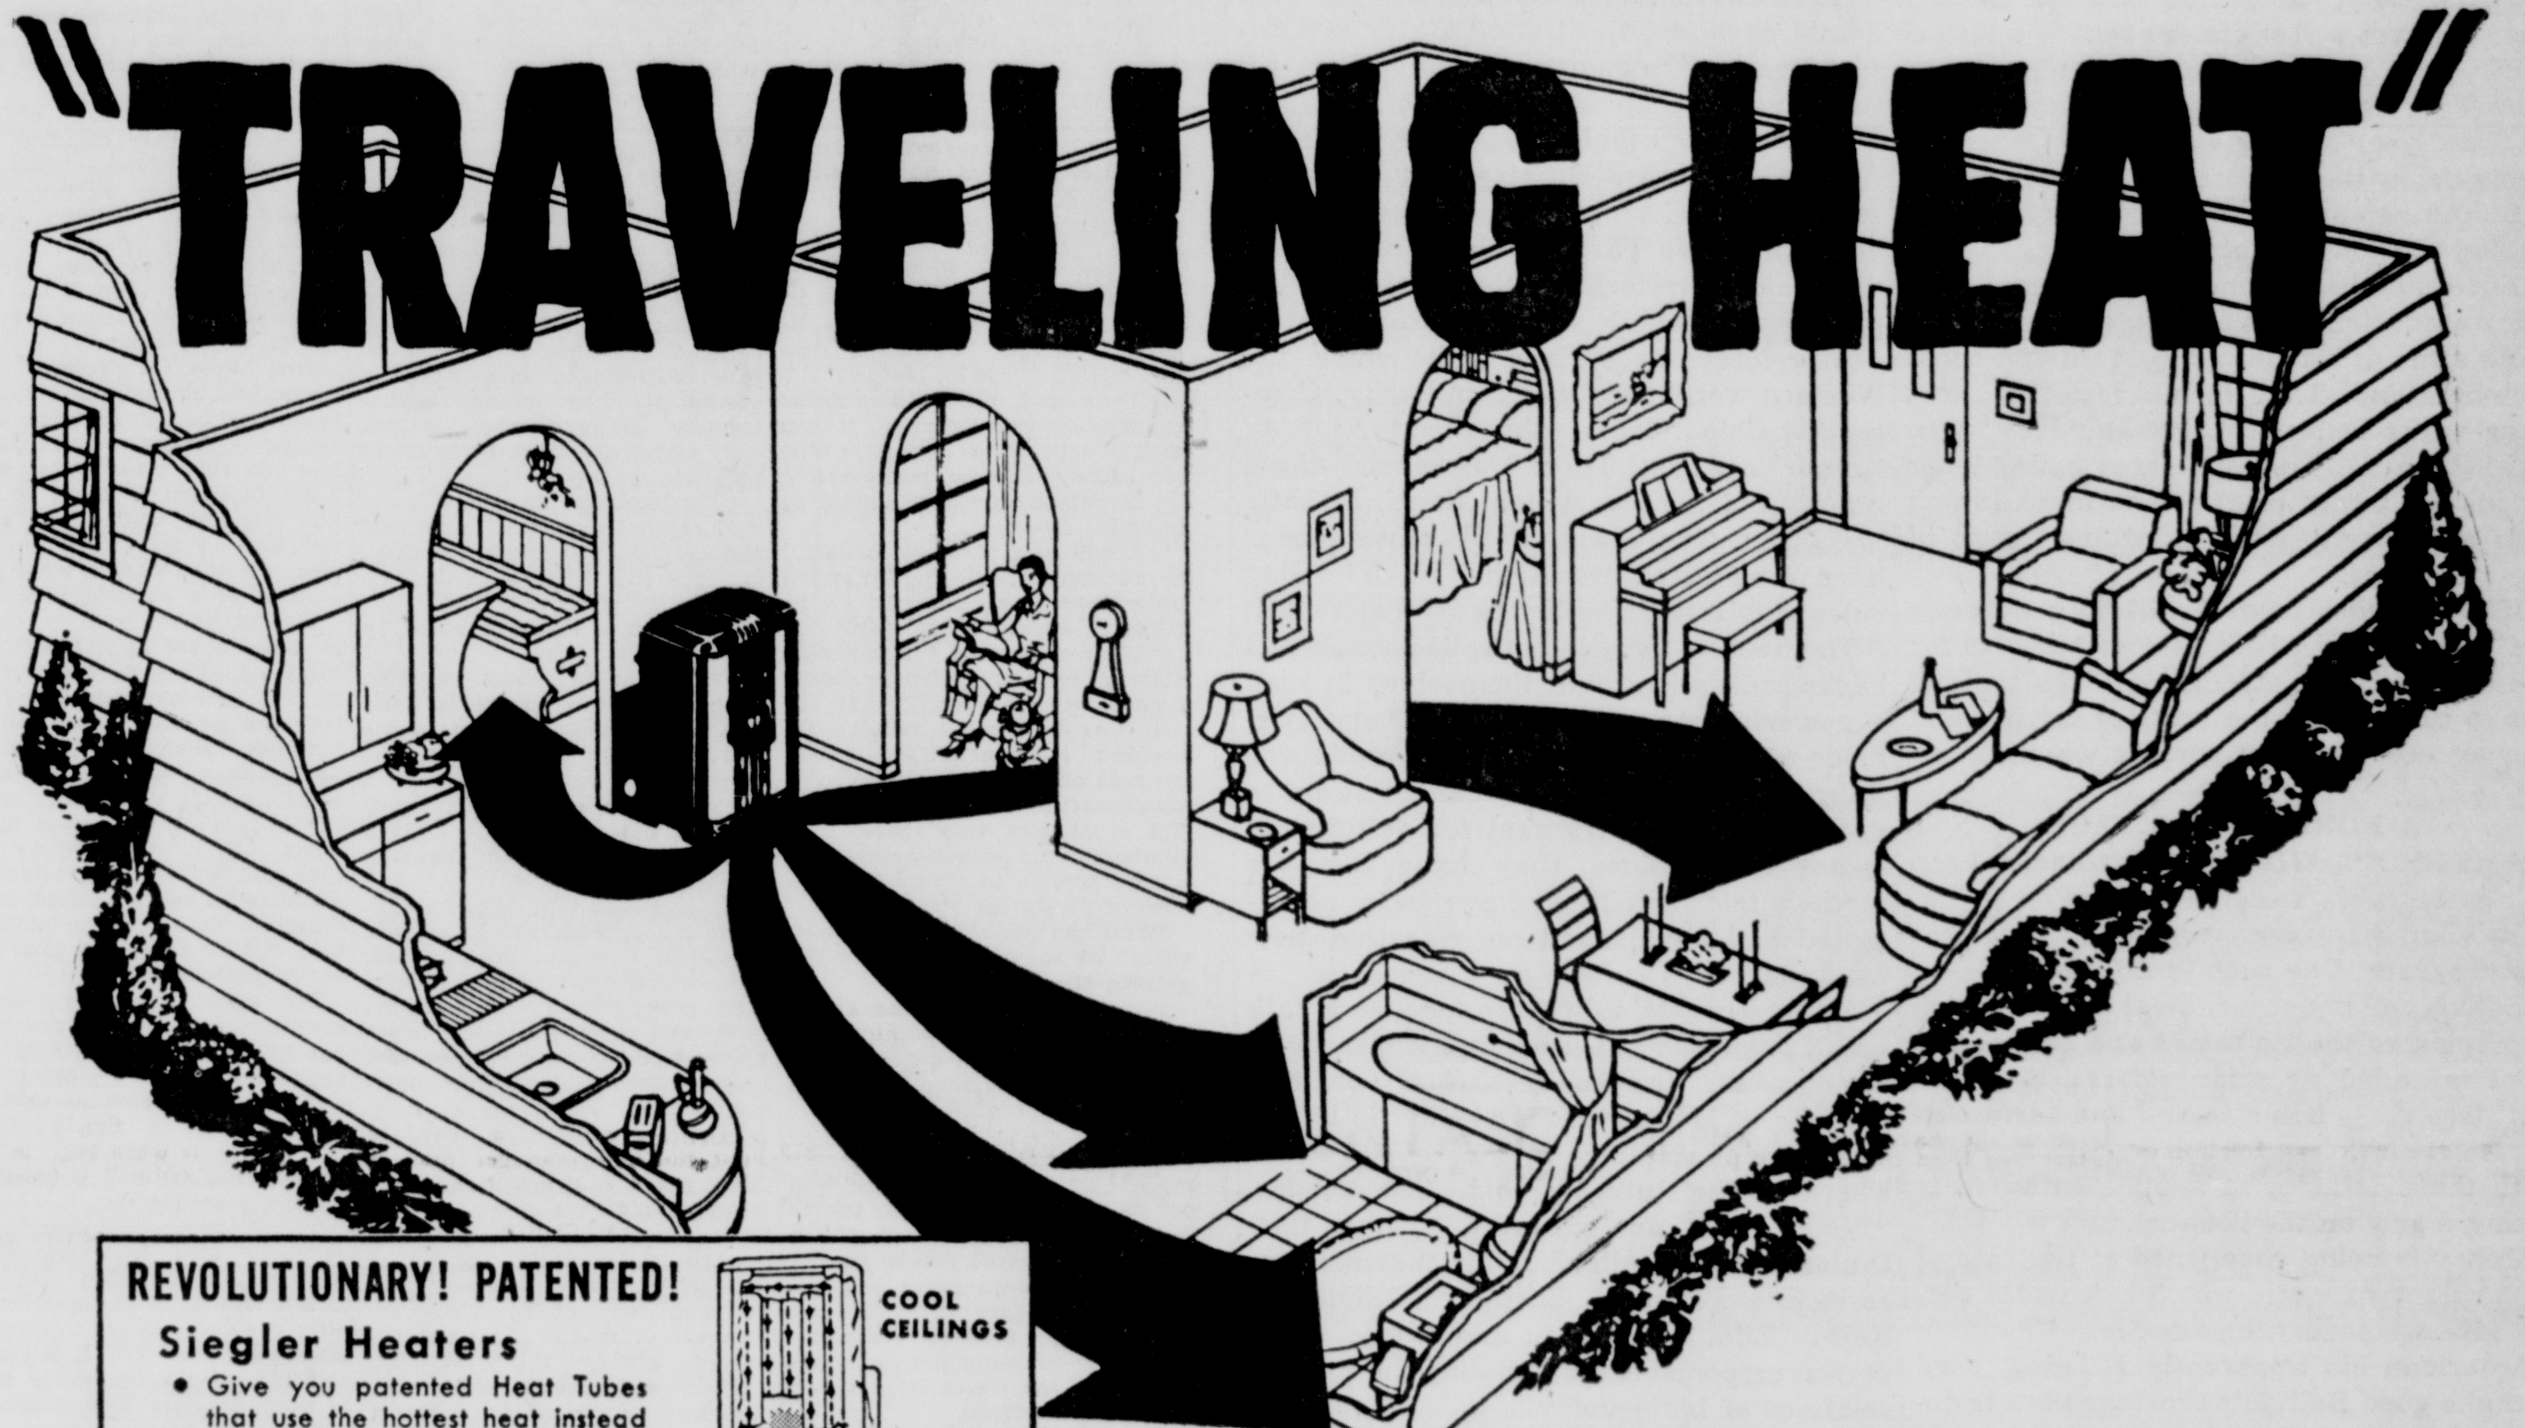

Through one of its psychologists, the Navy granted that electric typewriters are speedier and easier to operate than the older "manual" variety of machine. But it said it has found that it's not true that would-be typists will reach a higher proficiency level in less time if they are trained on electric instead of on manuals.

Psychologist Henry L. Adams of the Navy's Personnel Research Field Activity at San Diego said that after three weeks training "it was found that students trained on manual typewriters performed as well as students trained on electric typewriters."

cruiser off the highway onto the berm.

Then, in South Bloomfield, Parker's car apparently blew an oil seal, causing oil to splash on the windshield of the pursuing cruiser.

The officer, at first thinking the oil was water, turned on the windshield wiper. And the result was one big smear over the entire windshield, making it almost impossible to see the highway!

For Deputy Hoover, the Sunday morning chase was his second pursuit case in less than a week. Last Wednesday night, he pursued a stolen automobile over almost every street in the South end of the city before the car being chased smashed into a telephone pole.

Patrolman Miller, a few minutes before teaming up with Adams and Hoover to catch Parker's vehicle, had stopped a speeder in a chase that reached a speed of almost 100 miles per hour.

WHEAT OUTLOOK BETTER

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF Agriculture apparently feels it has at last found the keys to stabilizing wheat prices and at the same time cutting surpluses. In the annual outlook edition of "The Wheat Situation," the department predicts that the soil bank and the new export policy will accomplish these twin goals.

Specifically, department experts say that farmers will average about $2 a bushel during the marketing year which opened July 1, or equal to the federal support level. Last year's price averaged $1.98, or 10 cents below the support level in effect.

At the same time, surpluses are not expected to show further increases.

But what has agriculture forecasters even more optimistic is that next year the soil bank aims at retiring 12 to 15 million acres of wheatland. That should result in next year's crop being "considerably less" than total demand. That indicates both higher prices for wheat on the open market and also opportunities for unloading some of the surpluses.

If this proves true, it will be good news not only for the wheat farmer but also for the taxpayer who strongly dislikes shelling out to underwrite the costs of buying and storing mountains of surplus wheat.

A FOREIGN AID FLOP

AMERICAN AID has undoubtedly been of considerable assistance to several nations. But there are occasional failures in the program. One such is Bolivia.

Bolivia fell under a radical regime which expropriated the tin mines and engaged in what is called agrarian reform. As a result, less tin is being mined and farm output is not sufficient for the country's needs. With these failures in supply, inflation is taking a grip on the country.

Money is being cheapened at the rate of 10 per cent a month, which is a world record for any peacetime regime.

American aid apparently is being used to make good Bolivia's shortages but is doing nothing to solve the country's basic problem of more production to stop the erosion of money values. The economic assistance is therefore going to waste.

Meantime the radicals of Bolivia are denouncing "Yankee imperialists" without whose aid they would starve.

Coming elections might install a new regime which will do better. If that doesn't happen, American aid administrators should take another good look at Bolivia to see if something better cannot be done than throwing money down a rathole.

DUMPING TROUBLE

DUMPING American farm surpluses abroad is leading to all sorts of complications. Washington ordered surplus stocks of cotton exported at whatever prices they would bring. This is believed to have had a part in President Nasser's reaction against the United States.

Mexico, another cotton producer, is engaging in unwelcome reprisals. It has resorted to compulsory barter. Import licenses, especially for United States products, are granted only if the importer buys an amount of Mexican cotton equal to his sales. American auto manufacturers learn

It has generally been the policy of the Powers, as the rich and strong nations liked to call themselves, to keep the weak and backward nations in line or to absorb them. Thus at the Congress of Vienna, which settled the affairs of the world after Napoleon, only six nations were present as principal negotiators. They represented Great Britain, Austria, Prussia, Russia, France, and the Papal States.

Today, it is different. There are only two Great Powers in terms of military and economic capacity, the United States and Soviet Russia. The enormous British Empire, the French Empire, the Dutch Empire have dissipated their strength by war; the Austro-Hungarian Empire has been destroyed; the German Empire has been divided into two parts, both of which are veritable protectorates; the Japanese Empire has become a small Asiatic country.

New forces have risen with which the Western world has little familiarity. Communist China, India, the dictatorship of Nasser in Egypt, Tito's Yugoslavia—these offer problems for which there is little precedent. The Great Powers no longer have long-tested traditions, no binding rules of international law to fall back upon.

The reason that the so-called weak and backward nations find themselves in such a powerful position is that the very existence of the hydrogen bomb has made war impractical, and if nations cannot afford to use war as an instrument for settling international disputes, they have lost the method to which they have been accustomed and have found no effective new methods.

At present, the substitute for war is talk and if John Foster Dulles find it necessary to fly around the Earth like a veritable satellite, it is that talk is all that is left to international relations and he needs to be wherever the talk is held. The London "Times," in an editorial, thinks that Dulles is too mobile, but for that matter, so is Eden, Pineau, Shepilov, Adenauer, Nehru, Tito, Shigemitsu and every other person responsible for handling the foreign relations of his country.

Conferences have been held either at the summit or at the Foreign Ministers level since the very beginning of World War II and they have increased in number because there is a greater need for them.

Curiously, the telephone which brings the Ambassador so much closer at hand than he was even at the end of a cable line, has not served to lessen the arduous travelling of the Foreign Ministers, because in the tough trading that has been going on, particularly between the so-called Great Powers, whose greatness has become illusory, and the weak and backward nations, the latter take umbrage if they are not in contact with authority, final authority if they can get it.

SYNOPSIS

In Wild West days, Narcissa Hull traveled by stagecoach to Coyote Creek in northeastern Montana, to marry Emil Jacobson. One passenger became obnoxious in his attentions to her—Dolf Kinney. He bragged of being the richest and most powerful man in the territory, and told her to jilt Jacobson and marry him. Narcissa found comfort in the presence of Dr. Erd Eklund, who helped her fend off Kinney. When the stagecoach stopped at Coyote Creek, Emil was not waiting for her. "Looks like your feller didn't show up," Kinney said. "When you change your mind, let me know."

CHAPTER 2

NARCISSA stood, looking anxiously about, until it was apparent that Kinney was right. There was no one here to meet her.

"He knew that I was coming," she murmured, and distressed edged her tone. Uncertainly she turned to Eklund. "Do you know him, by any chance?" she asked. "Or where he lives?"

"Yes," Eklund answered to both questions. "Emil lives out about twenty miles. He don't get in to town often. Might have been delayed."

It was mid-afternoon, with the short shadows commencing to lengthen, but the heat of mid-August still beat down determinedly. Narcissa had ridden a long way already, and was tired, disheveled.

"If you want to go along, you might ride with me," Eklund suggested diffidently. "I'll be driving out that way, to see a patient."

She looked at him with quickening interest. "You're a doctor?"

"They call me a sawbones, mostly," he said soberly. "I had to make the trip to Forty Mile for some particular medicine."

"If you're sure I wouldn't be in your way—"

"It will be a pleasure, ma'am," he reassured her. "Better wash up a little 'fore we start. I'll be ready in about ten minutes."

"You're very kind," she looked about uncertainly. "Where should I go to—wash up?"

It was his turn to hesitate. He couldn't recommend the rooms for rent above one of the saloons, yet what else was there? He fumbled in his pocket, handed her a key, pointed to where his sign showed across the street.

"You can use my place, if you wish," he suggested. "While I'm getting the buggy."

She considered, became aware that Kinney was watching her with a wintry amusement, and took the key. Eklund had half-expected an explosion when he made his offer, but Dolf Kinney was unpredictable. He turned, moved across to his saloon and out of sight. Eklund went to the livery stable, and he was within the limit set as he swung up before his combined office and living quarters. He knocked, and entered at her muffled "come in," to see her toweling her face vigorously at the water bucket and basin in one corner.

"I'm making myself right at home," she told him, and flashed

"Emil is a lucky man," he said involuntarily.

She did not take offense at the sincerity in his voice. Outside, he had a single-seated buggy, the top up, a team of brown horses hitched. He helped her in, took his place beside her and swung out of town, the cayuses settling to a steady, mile-devouring trot.

"I can't tell you how much I appreciate this, Dr. Eklund," she said. "I just didn't know what to do."

"You've come far?" he asked. "From Indiana. And I don't believe I've even told you my name. It's Narcissa Hull."

"It fits you," he said. "Narcissa was my mother's favorite flower. 'Beauty in the spring, undimmed,' she used to call it."

The cayuses slowed as they climbed a slope, and from somewhere sounded the pounding hoofs of a horse hard-ridden, but they caught no glimpse of it.

"Somebody took the short cut the other side of the coulee," Eklund explained, in answer to Narcissa's inquiring glance. "A man on horseback can do that. He must be in a hurry."

When they topped the slope, the rider was out of sight over a higher rim beyond. The flat nature of the land was changing, giving way to rolling, broken country. They climbed a long easy slope, and from its crest he pointed.

"The Rockies," he said. "They're beautiful," she said simply. "Just seeing them there changes this whole country. I'll like Emil's place, now."

"You set a sight of store by Emil?"

"We went to school together. He came out this way three years ago. A few weeks back he wrote and asked me to come out and marry him. So—I came."

"You've no kin?" he guessed. "How did you know? Only a cousin—and I was in the way in her house."

He had read that already, added to his own knowledge of that back-east country. Poverty was in the rawhide-bound bag. But then, poverty was across all the land, this half a decade since Lee had laid down his sword and sent his men back to their plowing. North or south, east or west, it was the same. The country was now feeling the full effect of the years of destruction, a blight which would be slow in healing. Such an offer had probably seemed heaven-sent to the girl.

Narcissa liked this man, with his easy way of speaking, his sureness of intent. He was, she judged, around thirty, though sometimes he looked older. Or, as when he smiled that gently ironic smile, considerably younger.

Buying Junior's Shoes

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

SINCE this is "Child Foot Health Month," let's consider how to shop for a new pair of shoes for junior.

If he's like most youngsters, he probably needs them. An active child takes about 30,000 steps a day. That's about double the number taken by the usual house-maker in her daily chores.

Perfect Feet

Virtually all children are born with perfect feet. Yet, by the time they are one year old, eight per cent have developed some sort of foot trouble. The figure rises to 50 per cent at the age of 10 and to 80 per cent for high school youngsters.

Ill-fitting shoes can bring on poor posture, fatigue and can even affect the nervous system. You can easily see that properly fitted shoes are essential to protect your youngster's feet and general health.

There are several important things to keep in mind when buying shoes for your offspring.

Reliable Store

First, go to a good, reliable shoe store and take your time purchasing the shoes. Perhaps the clerk will offer you extra heavy duty shoes. And the way junior rips through pair after pair of regular footwear, this might seem like a good idea.

Generally, however, it's best to stick to regular shoes. Your child needs light, flexible shoes that bend easily at the ball of his foot.

Be sure that the shoes fit properly. Have the clerk measure both feet as the child stands barefooted, his feet bearing the full weight of his body.

Larger Foot

The shoes should fit the larger foot. They should be snug at the heel, half to three-quarters of an inch longer than the longest toe of the biggest foot. They should be wide enough at the toe so you can pinch the leather with your fingers and get a fairly good grip on it.

Of course, shoes should not slip or pinch the feet.

It may seem as though you're buying shoes all the time for junior. Well, that may be just about right. A youngster's feet grow rapidly and sometimes you may have to buy new shoes at the rate of a pair a month. Don't forget, half a size is only one-sixth of an inch.

The National Food Health Council says a child 2 to 6 years old may change his foot size every 4 to 8 weeks; 6 to 10 years, every 8 to 12 weeks; 10 to 12 years, every 12 to 16 weeks; 12 to 15 years, every 16 to 20 weeks; and 15 years and over, every 6 months until 20 years old.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. G.: Do electric shock treatments for mental illness injure the memory?

Answer: The memory is sometimes slightly altered by shock treatments. However, if they are needed, this should be no bar against taking them.

Give Away Won't Help Joe

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—An awe-inspiring thing has happened to the television giveaway program. It has finally met a man whose financial woes it can't solve.

He is a 42-year-old public relations executive, who has simple tastes, neither smokes nor drinks, and is on a diet because of a heart condition.

The man is Joe Louis, former world heavyweight champion, whose flailing fists earned him $4,626,721.69 between 1934 and 1951, when he retired. Joe isn't quite sure where the $4,626,721 went—let alone the 69 cents.

Nor today does he have any idea where he'll ever get the $1,300,000 Uncle Sam says he owes in income taxes.

"If I hit a couple of oil wells that bring in 10 or 15 thousand barrels a day, I might get out of the red," he said the other day. "But do I own any oil land? No, sir. I don't own nothing."

This isn't quite true. A friend estimated Joe still earns about $50,000 a year from various activities but pointed out, "more than 50 per cent" of that goes to pay his current taxes. Meanwhile government interest charges on his previous tax debt keep piling it higher."

Recently Joe and his wife, Rose, have been studying four hours daily hoping to hit the $75,000 jackpot on a network giveaway show.

Even if he won, however, this would only be a drop in the bucket. A statistician estimated that if Louis wanted to wipe out all his past tax debts in a single year he'd have to earn $11 million.

Joe, who was banned from further wrestling exhibitions in Illinois because of a heart condition that developed from a rib injury, has gone on a high-protein diet on his doctor's order.

"In a week I dropped from 246 pounds to 236," he said proudly. His best fighting weight used to be about 202 pounds.

Joe is now trying to boost his income as a public relations consultant in partnership with William L. Rowe, who was New York City's first Negro deputy police commissioner.

"We think a lot of business firms are overlooking the growing Negro market," said Joe.

"Negroes have a lot more money than they used to. The income of the average Harlem family has tripled since 1940. Negroes in the United States now spend as much each year as the entire population of Canada."

While Louis has received a lot of sympathy in his tax struggles, he hasn't let worry get him down.

"I really don't know how much I owe exactly," he said. "Last May it was more than $1,200,000, and the last I heard it was more than $1,300,000."

"The government has been nice to me. The tax men don't hound me. But it does bother me. It bothers anybody to feel he's up against something almost impossible to do."

WHEAT OUTLOOK BETTER

U. S. DEPARTMENT of Agriculture apparently feels it has at last found the keys to stabilizing wheat prices and at the same time cutting surpluses. In the annual outlook edition of "The Wheat Situation," the department predicts that the soil bank and the new export policy will accomplish these twin goals.

Specifically, department experts say that farmers will average about $2 a bushel during the marketing year which opened July 1, or equal to the federal support level. Last year's price averaged $1.98, or 10 cents below the support level than in effect.

At the same time, surpluses are not expected to show further increases.

But what has agency forecasters even more optimistic is that next year the soil bank aims at retiring 12 to 15 million acres of wheatland. That should result in next year's crop being "considerably less" than total demand. That indicates both higher prices for wheat on the open market and also opportunities for unloading some of the surpluses.

If this proves true, it will be good news not only for the wheat farmer but also for the taxpayer who strongly dislikes shelling out to underwrite the costs of buying and storing mountains of surplus wheat.

A FOREIGN AID FLOP

AMERICAN AID has undoubtedly been of considerable assistance to several nations. But there are occasional failures in the program. One such is Bolivia.

Bolivia fell under a radical regime which expropriated the tin mines and engaged in what is called agrarian reform. As a result, less tin is being mined and farm output is not sufficient for the country's needs. With these failures in supply, inflation is taking a grip on the country.

Money is being cheapened at the rate of 10 per cent a month, which is a world record for any peacetime regime.

American aid apparently is being used to make good Bolivia's shortages but is doing nothing to solve the country's basic problem of more production to stop the erosion of money values. The economic assistance is therefore going to waste.

"The Rockies," he said. "They're beautiful," she said simply. "Just seeing them here changes this whole country. I'll like Emil's place, now."

"You set a sight of store by Emil?"

"We went to school together. He came out this way three years ago. A few weeks back he wrote and asked me to come out and marry him. So—I came."

"How'd you kin?" he guessed. "You've no kin?" Only a cousin—and I was in the way in her house."

He had read that already, added to his own knowledge of that back-east country. Poverty was in the rawhide-bound bag. But then, poverty was across all the land, this half a decade since Lee had laid down his sword and sent his men back to their plowing. North or south, east or west, it was the same. The country was now feeling the full effect of the years of destruction, a blight which would be slow in healing.

Such an offer had probably seemed heaven-sent to the girl. Narcissa liked this man, with his easy way of speaking, his sureness of intent. He was, she judged, around thirty, though sometimes he looked older. Or, as when he smiled that gently ironic smile, considerably younger.

"Wait!" he ordered sharply, but he knew that she was at his heels as he advanced. No need to ask why Emil Jacobsen hadn't been at Coyote Creek to meet his intended bride. Dr. Erd Eklund had seen death too many times to need a closer examination to recognize it now.

Buying Junior's Shoes

By HERMAN M. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SINCE this is "Child Foot Health Month," let's consider how to shop for a new pair of shoes for junior.

If he's like most youngsters, he probably needs them. An active child takes about 30,000 steps a day. That's about double the number taken by the usual house-maker in her daily chores.

Perfect Feet

Virtually all children are born with perfect feet. Yet, by the time they are one year old, eight per cent have developed some sort of foot trouble. The figure rises to 50 per cent at the age of 10 and to 80 per cent for high school youngsters.

Ill-fitting shoes can bring on poor posture, fatigue and can even affect the nervous system. You can easily see that properly fitted shoes are essential to protect your youngster's feet and general health.

There are several important things to keep in mind when buying shoes for your offspring.

Reliable Store

First, go to a good, reliable shoe store and take your time purchasing the shoes. Perhaps the clerk will offer you extra heavy duty shoes. And the way junior rips through pair after pair of regular footgear, this might seem like a good idea.

Generally, however, it's best to stick to regular shoes. Your child needs light, flexible shoes that bend easily at the ball of his foot.

Be sure that the shoes fit properly. Have the clerk measure both feet as the child stands barefooted, his feet bearing the full weight of his body.

Larger Foot

The shoes should fit the larger foot. They should be snug at the heel, half to three-quarters of an inch longer than the longest toe of the biggest foot. They should be wide enough at the toe so you can pinch the leather with your fingers and get a fairly good grip on it.

Of course, shoes should not slip or pinch the feet. It may seem as though you're buying shoes all the time for junior. Well, that may be just about right. A youngster's feet grow rapidly and sometimes you may have to buy new shoes at the rate of a pair a month. Don't forget, half a size is only one-sixth of an inch.

The National Food Health Council says a child 2 to 4 years old may change his foot size every 4 to 8 weeks; 6 to 10 years, every 8 to 12 weeks; 10 to 12 years, every 12 to 16 weeks; 12 to 15 years, every 16 to 20 weeks; and 15 years and over, every 6 months until 20 years old.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. G. Do electric shock treatments for mental illness injure the memory?

Answer: The memory is sometimes slightly altered by shock treatments. However, if they are needed, this should be no bar against taking them.

Ohio Electoral College Faces Dec. 17 Session

25-Member Body Slated To Cast Buckeye Ballot For Next President

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's most exclusive "college" will convene in Columbus Dec. 17.

Known as the electoral college, its 25 members meet once every four years to cast their votes for President and Vice President of the United States. The last meeting was Dec. 13, 1952.

Voters next Nov. 6 actually will be choosing a slate of electors when they mark ballots for the nation's top offices.

Ohio ballots will carry the names of Republican and Democratic candidates for those offices. But your "X" mark actually will be for electors pledged to vote for their party nominees.

Electors are nominated at state conventions. Democrats will pick widely known party workers and civic leaders at their Columbus convention Sept. 8. Republicans will nominate their slate of electors at the GOP convention in Columbus Sept. 12.

The Federal Constitution specifies an elector for each congressman and U.S. Senator. Ohio's 23 congressmen and two senators give the state a total of 25 electors. The size of other state electoral colleges is determined similarly.

If most Ohio voters favor Democrat nominees Adlai E. Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, their electors will attend Ohio's "college." But if Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon are the winners, the Republican slate of electors will be chosen under the all-or-nothing system.

Electors are bound only technically to vote for their party nominees. But being prominent party members, they customarily cast solidly partisan votes.

The nominees for President and vice president who receive the most electoral votes nationwide will be declared winners officially.

The electoral college system has endured years of criticism. Foes assert it should be abandoned.

The late Alfred M. Cohen of Cincinnati, who voted in six Ohio electoral colleges, asserted at the 1948 session that the college had outlived its usefulness. He advocated electoral voting by states in proportion to the popular vote for candidates.

The Eisenhower-Nixon ticket got Ohio's 25 electoral votes in 1952. In 1948, Ohio votes went to Democrats Harry S. Truman for President and Sen. Alben W. Barkley for vice president.

Federal Controls On Steel Talked

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel shortage has become so acute that some consumers are clamoring for government allocations. The Iron Age, national metalworking weekly, said today.

"The post-labor day bulge in steel demand will tighten the market to the breaking point," Iron Age asserted. "Strike losses are now beginning to make themselves felt. . . The crisis has reached the point where Washington is getting feelers on the possibility of modified controls for the benefit of so-called defense-supporting industries."

Actress Seeking $100,000 In Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress-model Susan Harrison, 18, wants $100,000 damages for the time she fell 10 feet out of focus.

She said she was posing for Glamour Photos Aug. 20 on a roof patio at the apartment of producer-writer Rick Strauss when she fell through a trapdoor and broke her back.

The trapdoor had been covered with a straw mat, she said. Named defendants in the suit she filed in Superior Court Tuesday were Strauss, photographer Peter Basch and Mrs. Charlotte Auerbach, owner of the building.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a divorcee, 22, and have no children. I have a good job and make lots of nice contacts. Consequently I date a good deal, as often as four or more nights a week, usually with two or three different men. Presently I have five or six men calling me for dates; and my problem is this:

My friends criticize me for dating so many different fellows. They feel I should more or less stick to just one or two. But the truth is, I am not ready to "settle down" with a steady; and I just enjoy dating. I have nobody that I care for particularly, except as a person with whom to spend an enjoyable evening.

Do you think it is unwise to date so many different fellows?

Another thing: When a fellow calls you for a date, say somebody you have dated previously, and you don't care to date him again, what is a tactful way of letting him know?

A. P.

DEAR A. P.: Offhand, I should think it might be a social asset that you are able to attract and keep the interest of half a dozen or so eligible men, simultaneously. And I see no harm, per se, in your dating these men in rotation, more or less, in a sociable spirit of enjoying the evening in their company, with no deeper feeling about it.

And yet, I suppose it wouldn't make sense to dismiss your "friends'" warning attitude as deserving no heed. Actually there is a possibility that a divorcee's wholesome, nonpartisan dating of men, who don't seem anything special to her, may be a futile expenditure of energy, leading nowhere.

Ordinarily a man's investment of interest in a woman goes no further than her own personally felt potential of interest, as regards him. Most marriages, for instance, are made, sooner or later, as a result of a woman's having decided "He's for me."

Infrequently the idea lurks in both minds, at the same time—

Industrial Revolution Seen Ahead

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President George Meany of the AFL-CIO told the American Legion national convention here that the United States is "at the threshold of a second industrial revolution."

"Automation, coupled with atomic power, will change the lives of all of us," the leader of the merged labor organizations said in an address at the opening session of the legion's 38th convention.

"Labor sees no reason to fear the time when factories will run virtually on an automatic basis with machines operating machines."

"There will still be plenty of work to be done by people. There are new schools and better homes and improved roads to be built. There are great water power and flood control projects that haven't as yet left the drawing boards."

"And if it becomes possible to put into effect a shorter work week to maintain full employment let us promptly accept this opportunity to lighten the burdens of the American people and enrich their lives."

He Was Talking Only Of Weather

BALTIMORE (AP)—"Going to be 95 today," said elderly Walter Caruth Brown to one of his neighbors on John Street.

The neighbors, who didn't think the good gentleman looked quite 95, nevertheless prepared for the occasion in good-neighborly fashion. Someone baked a birthday cake, a "happy birthday" chorus was readied and a small girl was dispatched bearing the first gift—a hand-painted ash tray.

She returned to report that Mr. Brown said he appreciated the sentiment, but this wasn't his birthday. When the 87-year-old man said "going to be 95" he was talking about the weather.

'Why, I Never Do Grind,' 'Elvis the Pelvis' Claims

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Why, I never did a bump or grind in my life."

This was the testimony of teenage idol Elvis Presley. You know Elvis Presley. Sure, you do. He's either a real cool dreamboat or a menace to morals, according to which generation you view him from.

When I saw him, he seemed unconcerned by the storm that has raged around his happy hips. He was calmly sitting on a bench and sipping a soft drink between scenes "Love Me Tender", his first movie. He commented on his critics: "They say I do bumps and grinds. Why I never did a bump or grind in my life. What I do is, I wiggle my shoulders and I shake my legs and I walk up and down the stage and I hop around on one foot."

"But I never bump or grind. Why, that's vulgar. I'd never do something that was vulgar before a young audience. My mother would never allow it."

Presley was asked if he read what is printed about him. He allowed that he did read most of it. Since many of the comments have been vitriolic, I inquired if they hurt his feelings.

"Yes, sometimes," he admitted. "But I don't hold a grudge. Those people gotta make a living, too."

Unlike his advance billing, Presley proved to be a restrained and polite fellow, only belching once during our conversation. He said that he was intrigued by the movie business but still a little scared of it. Despite his modesty, fellow player Richard Egan had words of praise for the lad's ability as an actor. "He's great in the rushes," said Egan.

Presley plays Egan's younger brother in the post-Civil War film and the husband of Debra Paget. He'll have some songs to sing in the movie, but not the rock 'n' roll kind he's famous for.

"I don't think 'blue suede shoes' would fit into this period," he smiled.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The guy with the problem in this campaign is the average voter — the man who works all day and is not mixed up in politics — when he hears Democrats and Republicans shoveling out their one-sided stories.

Each tells what makes itself look good and the other side bad. How then is the average voter going to know where the whole truth lies, particularly when most of the issues they're talking about have roots going back for years?

He'd need a good filing system going back for years: Facts, dates and assorted information. But if he had all that, he'd find that in this complicated business of running the government neither side has a monopoly on virtue or wisdom.

Both have been involved in most of the events. A good example is the argument about living costs which have gone up about 2 per cent since President Eisenhower took office in January 1953.

The Republicans call that an excellent record. The Democrats belittle it, warning about inflation. The Republicans don't say much about the possibility of a further increase as a result of boosts in steel prices.

But the Republicans point scornfully to the huge living cost increases which occurred under the Democrats. They don't talk about the part Republicans as well as Democrats played in shooting price controls full of holes after the war.

And the Democrats never like to talk about the increases under the Democrats. But perhaps this will put at least the story of living costs in focus. Living costs have risen 72.3 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941.

They rose only 28.7 per cent during World War II but 43.6 per cent since then.

But the way they went up, and why, is the story:

From Jan. 1, 1941 to the time of the Japanese surrender Aug. 14, 1945 living costs rose only 28.7 per cent even though the country was at war most of that time. The reason: Tight controls on wages, prices, and materials; high taxes that took away purchasing power for scarce goods. It was also a time when people were putting into the war bonds the money they couldn't spend on things they couldn't get.

On the day Japan surrendered living costs got a start upward, for President Truman pulled off a number of wartime controls. There had been a lot of pressure to get back to normal as soon as possible. Gas rationing, for instance ended on V-J day.

But the Office of Price Administration was still sitting on the lid. In spite of enormous pressures, it held down prices pretty well. The proof is in the figures: From the end of August 1945 until July 1, 1946, a period in which all kinds of controls were abandoned, living costs rose only 3 per cent.

But OPA would have ended June 30, 1946 unless Congress renewed it another year. It was a time when business was screaming to get free of controls.

Congress renewed OPA in a bill which Truman vetoed late in June 1946. He said it was a wrecking bill, shot so full of holes that it would make OPA a mockery. He aimed hardest at the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio Republican, who led the fight to put into the bill amendments which Truman said would make OPA unworkable.

But the Democrats were running Congress then. Taft got his amendments through only because enough Democrats went along with him to make it possible.

Late in July Congress passed, and Truman signed reluctantly — saying it was just a little better than nothing — another bill to continue OPA. But for a month there was practically no OPA. Prices shot up.

In that one month, July, 1946, living costs rose 6 per cent — twice the increase between Sept. 1, 1945 and June 30, 1946.

By December 1946, OPA was for all practical purposes abandoned. Prices, meanwhile, under that second OPA bill's provisions, were breaking through the ceiling. And by the time of the Korean War — that is, between Aug. 1, 1946 and July 1, 1950 — living costs went up another 20.3 per cent.

Who's to blame for that? Taft? Truman? Democrats? Republicans? Or was it bad? Was it the price America had to pay — these increased living costs — to get back to a normal economy and full production? If controls had been continued a couple more years beyond December 1946, maybe the economy would have been ruined.

One thing was certainly wrong: The prediction made by Taft and others who wanted an end of controls: That if prices shot up, as they might temporarily, once controls were lifted, they'd come back down. They didn't.

Within a couple of months after the start of the Korean War the Democratic-run Congress gave Truman power to invoke controls again. He hesitated for months. And living costs shot up some more. Was he wrong? Nobody would say he was if the Korean War had ended in a couple of months, as some thought it would. But it didn't. And in January 1951, Truman slapped on controls again.

But meanwhile this had happened: Living costs rose 6.7 per cent between the start of the Korean War June 24, 1950 and Jan. 30, 1951. Truman invoked the controls Jan. 26, 1951. These controls put a brake on prices.

Between the end of January 1951 and January 1953, when Eisenhower took office, living costs rose another 5.1 per cent. By that time the country was fairly stable. When he took office, Eisenhower began to remove controls.

Between the time he took office and now living costs have gone up about 2 per cent. The people around Eisenhower have kept prices down by indirect controls on credit, among them raising interest rates to discourage borrowing.

Red China has been laboring for years to get a conference for Chou En-lai with whoever is the American Secretary of State, even if all that might be said at the Conference is "Good morning!"

John Foster Dulles has visited 38 countries. Selwyn Lloyd, who is the British Foreign Minister and successor to Sir Anthony Eden, has, during his short term, been away from his desk practically as much as Dulles, although he has had the advantage that some of the recent conferences have been held in London.

The United States has benefited by Dulles' travels although he, himself, may have suffered not only the fatigue of such living but also the inability to devote himself to the enhancement of his own popularity at home. Dulles was even unable to attend the San Francisco Convention where he could have made a speech and had a moment of applause.

Instead that went to Herbert Hoover, Jr., to whom applause can matter so little because he has no political ambitions, having experienced early in life the misfortunes of an engineer going into politics and attempting to apply the principles of logic to the illogical course of events.

No Makeup Planned For Ike On TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower isn't likely to use any makeup when he goes on television during the campaign this year, the White House said today.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty added, the President has not used any for TV appearances for a long time — "for more than a year or maybe two."

The question came up in connection with a report that Eisenhower was made up when he went on TV to accept nomination for a second term at the Republican National Convention.

"He absolutely was not," said Hagerty.

General Fund's Balance Is Now Back 'In Black'

After its latest dip into deficit figures, Circleville's general fund is back "in the black", thanks largely to a timely distribution of tax funds from the county.

Chairman George Crites of city council's finance committee has explained that the distribution came just at a time when the municipality needed it to avoid asking the county for another advance.

The August report submitted by Auditor Lillian Young, showing funds, receipts, expenditures and balances, was accepted Tuesday night as follows:

General Fund $33,434.03, 11,469.11, 22,701.72; Water Works Operation Fund 9,600.47, 9,600.47, 44,418.14; Sewage Disposal Fund 3,349.40, 2,724.98, 8,869.34; Street Construction, and Repair Fund 4,258.00, 5,728.34, 6,308.75; Water Works Trust Fund 200.00, 90.00, 3,385.00; Police Pension Fund 1,923.82, 392.42, 8,105.11; Firemen Pension Fund 1,923.82, 125.00, 28,333.17; Fire Truck Fund 6,412.73, 271.51, 11,772.08; Parking Meter Collection 2,066.50.

5 Inmates Foiled In Jail Break Plot

CINCINNATI (AP)—City Workhouse officials Tuesday put into solitary confinement five men who planned a jail break.

Workhouse Superintendent George Studt said the break was balked when a guard found a sawed-off bar. Studt said the men told him they planned to make their break sometime this week.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The guy with the problem in this campaign is the average voter — the man who works all day and is not mixed up in politics — when he hears Democrats and Republicans shoveling out their one-sided stories.

Each tells what makes itself look good and the other side bad. How then is the average voter going to know where the whole truth lies, particularly when most of the issues they're talking about have roots going back for years?

He'd need a good filing system going back for years: Facts, dates and assorted information. But if he had all that, he'd find that in this complicated business of running the government neither side has a monopoly on virtue or wisdom.

John Valentine
Joins Team At Bowling Green

John Valentine, former outstanding football player at Circleville High School, is undergoing pre-season grid practice with the Falcons of Bowling Green State University.

The one-time CHS grid star started his second season with the Falcons this past week. Last year he was a member of the university freshman squad.

According to reports from the northern Ohio school, Valentine will be playing center again this season. He is best remembered by local grid fans as a hard-charging fullback and standout linebacker.

However, the Bowling Green coaching staff pointed out that Valentine showed quite a bit of promise at the center position as a freshman.

The 205 pound griddler was a member of the CHS 1949, 50 and 51 championship teams. He is well remembered here as a running mate and number one blocker for Sandy Hill.

At present the Falcon squad is undergoing two-day practice drills in preparation for the season's opener. The first game is scheduled Sept. 15 with Defiance at the Bowling Green Stadium.

At Least 5 Top Honors Going To Reds

Amazing Cincinnati '9' Back In Second Place In Tight NL Flag Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Win, lose or draw, the Cincinnati Reds are almost certain to walk off with the following honors this year:

1. The most successful extra-inning club in the major leagues.
2. The most powerful home-run hitting crew in big league history.
3. Possessor of the National League's rookie-of-the-year in Frank Robinson.

4. Owner of the No. 1 relief pitcher in both leagues in Hershel Freeman.

5. Having the manager-of-the-year in Birdie Tebbets.

The amazing Reds solidified their hold on all five honors Tuesday night by handing the first-run Milwaukee Braves a stunning 4-2 defeat in 10 innings, made possible by Robinson's 37th home run and Freeman's 30th victory-bringing relief job. The Reds' brilliant fireman received credit for his 12th victory. He has saved 18 other games for Cincinnati.

The Reds' triumph, their second in a row over Milwaukee after a seemingly disastrous opening game defeat in Monday's doubleheader, boosted Tebbets' never-say-die outfit into second place, a half game ahead of Brooklyn and 2½ lengths behind the Braves.

It marked the 10th consecutive overtime triumph for the rampaging Reds, who have fought back into contention after having been counted out more times than a glass-chinned fighter.

In the only other National League game played Tuesday night, the New York Giants thumped Philadelphia 7-2 under the lights.

Cleveland's hopes of overtaking the American League leading New York Yankees became dimmer than ever when the tail-end Kansas City Athletics dumped the second placers 5-2 to drop the Indians nine games behind New York.

Freeman made his 49th mound appearance for Cincinnati in the ninth with the score tied 2-2, and gave up a leadoff double to rookie Earl Hersh, playing in his first major league game. But he pitched out the jam by purposely walking Joe Adcock, getting Bobby Thomson to ground into a double play and retiring Bill Bruton on a grounder.

Ernie Johnson was on the mound for Milwaukee in the 10th when Robinson rocked him with a home run to bring the flashy outfielder to within one of Wally Berger's rookie homer record of 38. Singles by Ted Kluszewski, Wally Post and Ed Bailey added an insurance run.

3-Way Tie In NL Scramble Studied

CINCINNATI (AP)—If the National League scramble ends in a three-way tie for the pennant, a two-and-out playoff series will be set up.

That's the word from league President Warren C. Giles who said Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Brooklyn "seem to be so evenly matched that it is not beyond the realm of possibility that we might

Richardson Looming As Yankee Hope

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—If any American is going to prevent an all Australian final in the National Tennis Championships, Hamilton Richardson is the logical candidate.

Vic Seixas is beyond his peak. In his three matches, he has played a total of 14 sets, including an uphill 8-6, 4-6, 3-6, 12-10, 8-6 triumph over Chile's Luis Ayala Tuesday.

Richardson, on the other hand, has whipped through three opponents with the loss of only one set. That came Tuesday against Mike Quillian of Seattle, whom he licked 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Australia's Ken Rosewall dropped Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., the 1950 national champion, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2; and Lew Hoad, the other Aussie, licked Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J., 11-9, 6-3, 6-4.

Shirley Fry, Mrs. Margaret Dupont, Louise Brough, and England's Shirley Bloomer all gained the quarterfinals of the women's division.

have the first three-way 'dead heat' in history in 1956."

Giles said that league rule No. 14.1, paragraph B, covers the situation. It calls for a round robin of games in which a team is eliminated after two losses.

25 Spartan Veterans Back

Michigan State Eyes Big Ten Grid Title

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—

Hugh Duffy Daugherty, who coached Michigan State's Spartans into the Rose Bowl last season may guide the Spartans to his first Big Ten football crown this fall.

Starting his third season as head coach, Daugherty said today Michigan State, runner-up to Ohio State in last year's conference race, will be a good team.

In the same tone of veiled confidence, Duffy added that "we'll be a contender until its proven otherwise."

Daugherty has proper halfback ingredients for a "great" team. The Spartan tandem of 200-pound Clarence Peaks and 205-pound Walt Kowalczyk should afford the best one-two running punch in the country. In preseason reckonings, each has been tabbed a candidate.

Daugherty doesn't think the ball-hoof will affect either star ball-carrier. "Each is a fine team man and a hard worker," said Duffy. "Kowalczyk had to polish his defensive play this spring and he did it willingly. Peaks not only is a fine runner and passer, but he is our best defensive back and our best blocker. He could play quarterback and he'd even be a good tackle, if I asked him to play that position."

Although Daugherty lost such top 195 performers as quarterback Earl Morrall, fullback Jerry Plunius, tackle Norm Masters, guard Buck Nystrom and end John Lewis, he has 25 lettermen back, plus some sharp sophomore prospects.

Michigan State opens with Stanford Sept. 29, and then wades into Michigan, Indiana, Notre Dame, Illinois, Wisconsin, Purdue, Minnesota and Kansas State.

The Spartans, with a 5-1 Big Ten record last season, got the Rose Bowl nod because champion Ohio State (6-0) has appeared in the 1955 Rose Bowl game and was unable to repeat under Big Ten regulations.

Overall, the Spartans had a regular season in 1955, suffering a 14-7 loss to Michigan in the second game, and wound up second to Oklahoma in the national AP poll.

Macias Favored To Trip Bataan

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Raul (Raton) Macias of Mexico City, who is recognized by the National Boxing Assn., as the world bantamweight champion, rated as a 2-1 favorite to defeat Larry Bataan of the Philippines in a 10-round bout here tonight.

The contest will be televised over the ABC network, starting at 10 p. m. EST. Macias' NBA title is not at stake.

Weight terms are 120 pounds, give or take a pound, but Bataan must not weigh less than 119.

Richardson Looming As Yankee Hope

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. — If any American is going to prevent an all Australian final in the National Tennis Championships, Hamilton Richardson is the logical candidate.

Vic Seixas is beyond his peak. In his three matches, he has played a total of 14 sets, including an uphill 8-6, 4-6, 3-6, 12-10, 8-6 triumph over Chile's Luis Ayala Tuesday.

Richardson, on the other hand, has whipped through three opponents with the loss of only one set. That came Tuesday against Mike Quilliam of Seattle, whom he licked 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Australia's Ken Rosewall dropped Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., the 1950 national champion, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2; and Lew Hoad, the other Aussie, licked Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J., 11-9, 6-3, 6-4.

Shirley Fry, Mrs. Margaret Dupont, Louise Brough, and England's Shirley Bloomer all gained the quarterfinals of the women's division.

have the first three-way 'dead heat' in history in 1956."

Giles said that league rule No. 14.1, paragraph B, covers the situation. It calls for a round robin of games in which a team is eliminated after two losses.

25 Spartan Veterans Back

Michigan State Eyes Big Ten Grid Title

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Hugh Duffy Daugherty, who coached Michigan State's Spartans into the Rose Bowl last season may guide the Spartans to his first Big Ten football crown this fall.

Starting his third season as head coach, Daugherty said today Michigan State, runner-up to Ohio State in last year's conference race, will be a good team.

In the same tone of veiled confidence, Duffy added that "we'll be a contender until its proven otherwise."

Daugherty has proper halfback ingredients for a "great" team. The Spartan tandem of 200-pound Clarence Peaks and 205-pound Walt Kowalczyk should afford the best one-two running punch in the country. In preseason reckonings, each has been tabbed a candidate.

Daugherty doesn't think the ball-hooy will affect either star ball-carrier. "Each is a fine team man and a hard worker," said Duffy. "Kowalczyk had to polish his defensive play this spring and he did it willingly. Peaks not only is a fine runner and passer, but he is our best defensive back and our best blocker. He could play quarterback and he'd even be a good tackle, if I asked him to play that position."

Although Daugherty lost such top 195 performers as quarterback Earl Morrall, fullback Jerry Planutis, tackle Norm Masters, guard Buck Nystrom and end John Lewis, he has 25 lettermen back, plus some sharp sophomore prospects.

Michigan State opens with Stanford Sept. 29, and then wades into Michigan, Indiana, Notre Dame, Illinois, Wisconsin, Purdue, Minnesota and Kansas State.

The Spartans, with a 5-1 Big Ten record last season, got the Rose Bowl nod because champion Ohio State (6-0) has appeared in the 1955 Rose Bowl game and was unable to repeat under Big Ten regulations.

Overall, the Spartans had a regular season in 1955, suffering a 14-7 loss to Michigan in the second game, and wound up second to Oklahoma in the national AP poll.

Macias Favored To Trip Bataan

HOLLYWOOD — Raul (Raton) Macias of Mexico City, who is recognized by the National Boxing Assn., as the world bantamweight champion, rated as a 2-1 favorite to defeat Larry Bataan of the Philippines in a 10-round bout here tonight.

The contest will be televised over the ABC network, starting at 10 p. m. EST. Macias' NBA title is not at stake.

Weight terms are 120 pounds, give or take a pound, but Bataan must not weigh less than 119.
